Just reaching out to say: thank you for noticing that nothing has changed since when you all voted to approve the EHT. :)

I am not tracking the political logic of the switch. Those who are targeting 7 CMs for removal are still coming for those same CMs. Now with the knowledge that they won't defend themselves effectively.

I've only heard about your stmt second hand but to the extent you are saying there is still the same problem and it isn't responsible to abandon the most significant step that's been taken toward a solution—thank you.

Thank you for your
